SHOULD HAVE HEATERS.

Indianapolis Again Beaten on a Wintry Day by the St. Paul Circus Performers.

Epecial to the Indianapolis Journal. St. Paul, Minn., April 24.-Indianapolis played better ball to-day, but could not score after making two runs in the first inning. It snowed in the morning, and a cold northeast gale raked the grounds in the afternoon, and chilled players and spectators.

In the first inning, with St. Paul at the bat. Centerfielder Hogreiver poked the ball into the sand in front of the plate and ran to first, made second, and then, on wild throws, started home, tripped over pitcher Sullivan, turned a somersault in the air, and landed on his head and shoulders near the plate. He was carried from the grounds and was thought by the spectators to be. seriously hurt, but soon reappeared, and played good all-around ball clear through the game, making three of St. Paul's five runs.

made the St. Pauls churn air, and when they did find the bail it was carried in all directions by the wind. In the last part of the game the situation reversed, and the Indianapolis men had holes in their bats. In the first inning Carpenter brought two Hoosiers home by sending the ball ballooning into left field. In the second Clingman made a "cyclone" stop and put the ball safely to O'Brien, at first. In the seventh, with two men out, Carpenter missed an easy fly, and the Saints scored. With kangaroo leaps and foot-racing. Letcher got every ball going into right field. St. Paul made some errors, and won by hard playing. The especially good plays were pitcher Wadsworth's swift single-hand stop and careful delivery to first in the second inning: long, triangular runs, safe catches by Donoghue in the third; Alvord's journey into the left bleachers after a flying foul, and Sutcliffe's right-field work. About a thousand chilled spectators saw the game.

Preparations for the Enthronement of Bishop Vaughu at Westminster,

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LONDON, April 24.-Elaborate preparations are in progress for the enthronement of Bishop Vaughn as Archbishop of Westminster, to succeed the late Cardinal Manning in that office. The ceremonies will take place on May 8, and the scenes of pomp and splendor then witnessed will probably exceed any of the kind since England became a Protestant country. The annual meeting of the Roman Catholic bishops in England would, in ordinary course, have taken place in London tomorrow, but has been postponed until the above date, in order to enable all the higher clergy to assist in the great ceremony of installing the archbishop. which will take place in the pro-cathedral in Kensington. Think Him an Ohio Burglar. Frecial to the Indianapolis Journal.

LAFAYETTE, April 24. - William McMillan is under arrest here on a charge of burglary in Ohio. The marshal of Sidney, O., is here after the prisoner. He says that a burglary was committed at Port Jefferson, a few miles from Sidney, last February, and that they have in custody a man who confesses to his share in the crime, and also implicates McMillan. Marshal McClure, of Sidney, came here after McMillan, but the prisoner refused to go back without a requisition. McMillan employed lawyers and set up a fight for liberty by habeas corpus proceedings. Late Saturday night Judge Everett took the matter under advisement until Monday morning, and the accused was sent back to jail. In the meanwhile it thought the papers will arrive. McMillan denies all knowledge of the crime. His wife was here on a visit to her parents, and the Ohio officers thus got an inkling where he was.

When on his death-bed he told his family that he had buried some money in a certain field, but he was unable to make them understand where it was. After he was buried a search was made, but with no success. Two of his sons came to this city and consulted a fortune-teller, who told them where the money could be found. They made a diligent search as directed, but without success. They came back to the woman—the money was not there. She asked them about their search and after they had told her, she told them there was between $300 and $500 not five feet from where they had been digging. They returned, and this time found a bak ing-powder can containing $440 in gold. THE CAPTIVE STOCKMEN.

How They Appeared When They Arrived at Fort Russell-A Bold-Looking Gang.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 24.-Major Egbert, in command of the Seventeenth Infautry, which relieved three companies of the Sixth Cavalry from Fort Mckinney as guards of the captured stockmen, designated 7 o'clock this morning as the hour for the party to start for Fort Fetterman. The Governor expressly stated that the train should not move except during daylight. All the men slept in the cars last night. The special was preceded by a pilot engine and caboose, the latter filled with a construction crew and tools to repair and possible damage which might be done to the tracks. Two men, with field-glasses, were stationed in the lookout of the caboose to carefully scrutinize the road for breaks. Their position maintained until Bordeaux was reached when all chance of danger was believed to be passed and the look-out was suspended. It was just 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon when the train slowly pulled into Fort Russell depot. There was a crowd of several hundred people waiting to receive them. The baggage of the outfit was first unloaded on the platform and then loaded into the heavy government wagons. This done, the twenty Texans stepped forth upon the platform and stood in a group, guarded by the soldiers and waiting orders. They are all young-looking men, but they looked very tough, their recent experience giving them the appearance of a hard gang of citizens. They were bold, dare-devil looking fellows, who seemed perfectly unconcerned at what was transpiring. The last to appear were the cattlemen, twenty-two in number, who came forth with Major Wolcott and James Irving in the lead. They looked tired and worn. Stubby beards of four weeks' growth adorned their faces, while their clothing did not contribute much to improve their appearance. The Texans were first marched away, guarded on every side by soldiers, and conducted to the post bowling-alley, where quarters were arranged for them. Sevcattlemen, with soldiers walking in their rear. The Texans went together in a body and filed into the bowling-alley, while the cattlemen remained near the front. The captives would not talk very much, except about their journey down. "Would you have surrendered to the sheriff's posse?" was asked of one of the stockmen. "No, we would not," was the reply. "Every man had made up his mind to die where he was rather than surrender, and we would have sold our lives dearly."

Good Effect of Short Skirts. New York Advertiser.

One good effect of short skirts, if ever generally adopted, will be to force women to learn how to walk well. At present they shuffle, mince, turn in one foot, do everything but walk. Nothing commands more respect than dignity of carriage, always excepting elegance and dignity of speech, and when my sex discovers that feet have a bigher mission than to be crowded into boots and shoes too small for them, and that corns are an offense against nature, the reign of nobie bearing may set in. In the old times we were all taught to hold our chins close to our necks and walk from the knees. In consequence, half the generation have lumps at the back of their necks where their last vertebra stands out. Now, we hold up our heads and look the sun in the face and swing along with the full sweep of our legs, so we look frank and fearless, don't stub our toes and have a splendid line from the top button of our frocks to the tip of our chins.

THE TIME HAS NOT ARRIVED

One-Cent Letter Postage Not Likely to Be Adopted for Some Years to Come.

Mr. Wanamaker Says It Would Cause a Large Loss of Revenue, and that the Scheme Would Be Impracticable at Present.

ONE-CENT LETTER POSTAGE. Postmaster-General Wanamaker Says It Is

Impracticable at the Present Time, Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, April 24.-A strenuous effort is being made by persons interested in the passage of the bill recently introduced in the House by Representative Post, of Illinois, to reduce letter postage from 2 to 1 cent an ounce. A circular has been distributed broadcast, and has been received by nearly every member of the present Congress, stating that 104 members have promised to vote for the bill, and urging non-committed members to support it. The circular has been sent to people in all doubtful congressional districts, asking that their Representatives be instructed to vote for the measure.

In response to requests from the House committee on postoflices and post-roads as to the effect of one-cent postage Postmaster-general Wanamaker has answered that the estimated revenue from domestic man matter of the first-class, chargeable with postage at the rate of two cents for each ounce or fraction thereof, mailed during the year ended June 30, 1890, was $38,068,-197, which amount was equal to 62,5 per cent. of the total revenue of the department. There has since been no change in the rates of postage, or in the conditions affecting the revenue, and it may be assumed, he believes, that the proportions of different classes of matter shown will apply at the present time. The total esti-mated revenue of the department for the current year has been $72,777,500, of which amount $45,485,719 has been received from first-class matter. The reduction of the rate from 2 cents to 1 cent would, in the opinion of the Postmaster-general, be followed by a corresponding loss of $22,742, 59, Mr. Wanamaker thinks that while it may reasonably be expected that the stimulus of lower rates would result in something more than a normal growth of the business, it is not probable that the revenue derived from the extra business would, at the present time, compensate for the loss incurred through a reduction of rate. The Postmaster-general is in favor of a reduction of letter postage at the proper time, but he does not believe it has yet arrived, and he will consequently oppose any contemplated change on the ground that it is impractica-

The Bill to Protect National Banks from Acts of Officers Not Likely to Pass.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, April 24.-An evidence of the hostility of the present House of Representatives toward the present system of national banking is found in the treatment which is being accorded a bill recently sent over to the House by the Senate. The bill is the one which was originally passed by the House, providing that the officers of national banks shall not be perand Economy, University of Pennsylvania, mitted to borrow money of the institutions in which they are employed, except upon the consent of the full directory. It is a notorious fact that a large per cent. of failures of national banks is due to the fact that the cashiers, tellers, book-keepers and clerks borrow large sums of money from the banks without the knowledge of the directors, and without giving good security. They are in possession of the machinery of till it is too late. The Senate passed this very meritorious measure, but added an amendment providing that banks may take out circulation to the full par value of the bonds deposited with the Treasurer to secure circulatian. The House committee on banking and currency refuses to concur in the amendment, and the bill will fail of passage.

sixty Thousand Will Be in Line, WASHINGTON, April 24.—The committee on the coming Grand Army encampment parade and review has information at hand which leads it to believe that there will not be less than sixty thousand old soldiers in line, which will make a parade larger than any in the history of the organizacountry in time of peace. The committee has decided that none but G. A. R. men and those organizations designated or to be designated by the commander-in-chief shall be permitted to participate in the parade.

Flour Made from Bananas. WASHINGTON, April 24.-The Bureau of American Republics is informed that a new use has been found for bananas, which will greatly add to the value of that fruit. In several places in Central America flour is now being made from bananas, which, under chemical analysis, is found to contain more nutriment than rice, beans or corn. A manufactory on a large scale is being established at Port Lamon, Costa

The plan for the re-union of the five republics of Central America into a single confederation has been again revived. General Notes.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, April 24.-Mrs. Harrison is slowly but steadily improving in health. She is still too weak to receive visitors. For the present she has no "day" for even private interviews. She says she feels somewhat relieved that Holman, the ob-

What Women Read First.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "I have only recently discovered the great value of particular lines of newspaper advertising," said R. J. Earnest, of San Francisco. "I have often wondered why big firms, with reputations well established, spent such vast, sums of money every year in advertising their wares. I know that the majority of men consider an advertisement in a newspaper a positive nuisance, and something that they read only after they have devoured all the other contents of a paper. But it has been my good fortune during my week's stay at this hotel to be seated at table with three or four bright women. Every one of them comes down to breakfast with a newspaper in her hands. And what do you suppose she reads first? Why, the advertise-ments of the big dry-goods houses, of course. She dwells and comments on every item of the advertisements with the serious interest that I devote to the market reports. She even goes further than I do-she copies the names and prices of the articles described. After finishing with the dry-goods houses she hunts up the millipery advertisements and goes through the same process as before described. In fact, she literally reads every advertisement in the paper, including 'wants,' 'rooms for rent, medicines, etc., and then, if she isn't by this time suffering from brain fag, she will run her eyes over the news columns."

When Mr. Rorer Rebelled.

New York Times. The husband of Mrs. Rorer, the cooking lecturer, is a mild-mannered gentleman. who is contented to sink his personality, mind his own affairs and let his wife travel about and gather fame unhindered. He broke over the traces with a vengeance the other day, when he burst into her presence with his arms filled high with a fresh de-livery from the laundry. "This thing must stop right here," was his angry greeting. "Why, what is the trouble dearf" asked bis spouse. "Trouble! Trouble enough!" he retorted, his voice shaking. "I have stood by quietly and let you have your own way with the public. That is all right. I make no objection now. But when my shirts come back from the laundry marked

'Sarah T. Rorer,' I draw the line.

Fire in the Nickel-Plate. An overheated furnace in the rear of the Nickel-plate saloon, on Illinois street, at the south end of the tunnel, set fire to the building at 11 o'clock last night. The apartment was used as a bakery by A. Garber, who was burned out on South Tennessee street some weeks since.
